

New Practice

Redevelopment of Buchanan Galleries

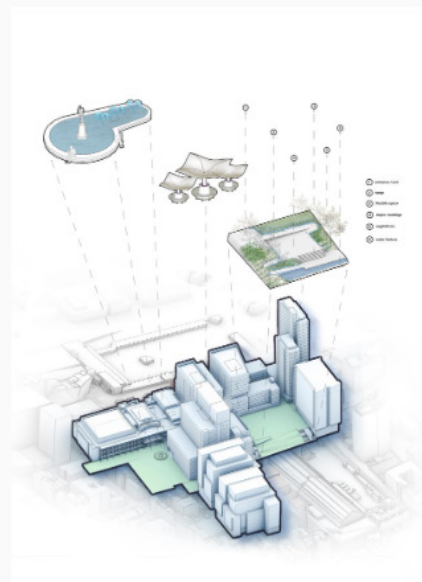

Creatively engaging the public across the city of Glasgow and consulting key communities and stakeholders on the developing masterplan for Buchanan Galleries.

New Practice were appointed by Landsec to engage directly with local communities and key stakeholders across the city on the proposed redevelopment of Buchanan Galleries. We worked to communicate and facilitate meaningful dialogue between the public and the design team that included Foster + Partners, MLA, LDA Design, Arup, Atelier Ten, Savills, LUC, Dram Communications, Turleys and Turner Townsend.

The project aims to create a vibrant, successful heart of the city centre, targeting net zero through a new mixed-use urban district, that meets the changing needs of local people, visitors, businesses, and the wider city.

Student Co-Design Workshops

As a final element of the consultation programme, New Practice organised and facilitated two intensive co-design workshops with local design students. The first of these was with Architecture students from the University of Strathclyde and the Glasgow School of Art, with the second hosting Interior Design and Interaction Design students from the Glasgow School of Art. Over three days we explored the future of the public realm around the proposed Sauchiehall Street extension, as well as the place identity of the new district.
